SURFACE WEB

Search engine results, Facebook, Amazon, eBay, InfoArmor.com

GOOGLE SEARCH

-need access to otherwise inaccessible parts of the web

WHY USE THESE BROWSERS?

Search engine crawlers do not pick up most resources including:

- Dynamic content: dynamic pages which are returned in response to a submitted query or accessed only through a form
- Unlinked content: pages which are not linked to by other pages (ie backlinks or inlinks)
- Private Web: sites that require registration and login
- Limited access content: sites that limit access to their pages in a technical way
- Scripted content: pages that are only accessible through links produced in script (ex javascript)

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

What is the difference between the deep web and the dark web?

- The Deep Web refers to the broad swath of the internet that traditional search engines are unable to access, including password-protected web forums, chat services, file sharing and P2P technologies. While the Dark Web is a subcomponent of the Deep Web that is not only inaccessible to mainstream search engines but only visible to users who have installed specialized software enabling access to these regions of the internet.
- Why can't you use a surface web browsers and search engines to enter the deep web?
 - Using a regular web browser would not protect your identity and it can arouse suspicion with the law. Tor is exceptionally good because there are several layers of encryption (like an onion) to mask your IP.
 - Using a search engine such as Google is futile as it cannot index or retrieve the amount of data that is not accessed via public DNS services. The Dark Web and the Deep Web itself have their own search engines.
- Name three illegal and legal activities that can be done in the deep web.
 - Illegal: Prostitution, Drug deals, Hitmen services.
 - Legal: Journalism, accessing banned novels, whistleblowing.
